Republicans Have Nebraska

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 10.—With but two counties to hear from in the state, on the face of unofficial returns, Dietrich, Republicans, is elected governor by a plurality of 675 over Governor Poynter. The remainder the state ticket is likely to be Republican but it will take the official count to determine the result. There is no change in the legislative situation, the result depending upon Douglass county (Omaha), in which the official count proceeded only a little way today.

No Office for Gomez.

Havana, Nov. 10.—Gen. Maximo Gomez has written a letter to the newspapers declaring that he will accept no public office in Cuba under the republic.

He adds that his mission as a revolutionist terminated the minute the revolution triumphed.

What remains to be done by the military.

He says that his retired life ought to convince every one of the sincerity of his intentions.

Missouri About 30,000 Democrats.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 10.—Four more counties are still to be heard from in Missouri, but the democrats are confident that their plurality will be between 32,000 and 35,000. On the other hand, the Republicans assert that it will be 30,000 or less. The official count will not be developed for several days.

Jack's Prayer.

Discussion over our prize-money awards in the Spanish war brings out some old stories on that subject, the following being from the Argonaut: At the battle of Trafalgar a sailor found kneeling by his gun, as his ship was about to engage the enemy, was asked by the first lieutenant if he was afraid. "Afraid!" answered Jack, with an expression of the utmost disdain; "no, your honor; I'm only praying that the enemy's shot may be distributed like the prize money—the greatest part among the officers."—Detroit Free Press.

It is All Over.

It is again all over with us. It has been all over with us so many times that we can recognize every symptom in the dark.

Aside from the bad taste which it leaves in the mouth the uncomfortable idea that the heart has strayed down to your abdomen, there is the treasuring thought that men of whom are growing painfully in number.

There is some compensation in knowing you are right where so many are wrong.

The average Democrat has a remarkable recuperative power. In a few days the fur will wear off his tongue, the leaden look will vanish from the eyes and he will be ready to tackle Massachusetts with another silver plank.

May blessings rest upon his stubborn old head. It is noble to stand by the thing you believe to be right when victories are as rare as the visits of angels.

It is all over now and the fight has left no bitterness. The Republicans have the whole thing and they are expected to keep our dinner pails full.—Post.

There are said to be three royal persons in Chicago, but it is not stated just how many head of hogs, stock and cattle they have.

Elder Johnson says: "De only trouble 'bout election is—dey don't come frequent enough fer a man ter make a livin'!"

The New York man, aged 103, who voted the Republican ticket illustrated the truth of the saying that one is never too old to do good.

Fifty years ago news from Europe reached America in two weeks. Now it comes in two minutes.

The length of the world's railways is more than seventeen times the circumference of the earth at the equator.

Seventy years ago it took a day and a half to go from New York to Philadelphia.

ISLANDS NAMED FOR DOGS.

Whence the "Island of the Talking Dog" Derived Its Name.

Dozens, some say scores, of islands, of greater or less dimensions, are known as "Little Dogs," "Dog Islands," "Big Dogs," etc. An island in the Thames, now a part of London, is called the "Isle of Dogs." Three lofty, rocky islands near St. Thomas, Virgin islands, are known as "The Great Dog," "George Dog" and the "West Dog." There are "Dog Islands" in the Malayan archipelago; off the coast of Maine; on the coast of Franklin county, Fla., and another in the Ser-watt group.

On the coast of Kamchatka there is an island known as "The Island of Talking Dogs." The curious story connected with this spot of land and the one that gives it the name it bears is this, according to an Asiatic legend:

The first inhabitants of the far north did not employ dogs, but drew their walrus-rib sleds themselves. After ages had elapsed men made an attempt to use the dogs of that region—which, by the way, talked just as men do—as beasts of burden. The talking dogs, however, argued the case with their would-be masters, and were not long in proving that they had enough to do to catch game for themselves and the children of men.

But the men soon learned the use of the bow and arrow and the spear, thus ruining the occupation of the talking dogs. Again an attempt was made to harness them to sleds, but they rebelled, and all swam out to the island, afterward known as "The Island of the Talking Dogs."

Here the game was scarce, and the dogs soon turned cannibals, and by the end of the first winter there were only seven left. Some human Kamchatkans volunteered to row out to the island and bring off the remnant of the dog colony. But the dogs refused to leave their barren island, saying: "What people are you? We have never seen you before." For this untruth Chami, the dog god, took their voices away from them, and until this day they have been the dumb servants of man.—Philadelphia Times.

Pickled Oysters.

The old-fashioned way to pickle oysters was as follows: Separate the oysters from their juice. Pour over the oysters a boiling hot brine made in proportion of four tablespoonfuls of salt to one quart of water. Let the oysters stand in this brine until it is cold, then drain them out and put them in a mixture of two-thirds of their own juice and one-third good vinegar. Heat the juice and vinegar boiling hot and pour it over the oysters after draining them out of the brine. Add a teaspoonful of whole mace, the same amount of whole cloves and whole peppers to every quart of oysters. As soon as the oysters are cold they are ready to serve, but they will keep some time in a cold place in winter.—N. Y. Tribune.

The man who cannot bear defeat, the man who cannot survive defeat is unworthy of victory.

The home that New York is to provide for aged literary men will not help out the young literary men.
